O'Doul's canned for minors

BY ANTOINETTE BERNICH
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

O'Doul's is being shelved for the younger crowd, thanks to the Illinois' zero tolerance law.

While O'Doul's is not legally considered a beer, it will no longer be served on campus to anyone under 21.

O'Doul's has been served at most athletic events this semester. It is brewed by Anheuser-Busch Inc. by the same process as other beers, but the final phase of O'Doul's involves removing most of the alcohol, leaving the brew with less than a half percent of alcohol by volume.

The Illinois Liquor Control Commission does not regulate any liquid or solid containing one-half of 1 percent or less alcohol.

According to SIUE Police Chief Richard Harrison, a problem could occur when a minor drinks O'Doul's and then gets into a car to drive home.

"There is a zero tolerance law in Illinois," Harrison said. "O'Doul's does have alcohol in it. If you drink it and get stopped, you could fail the no tolerance test."

Illinois' zero tolerance law means that if you are under 21, driving a car and register any reading on a Breathalyzer test, you are in violation of the law.

Harrison emphasized the fact that it has not been determined how many servings of O'Doul's it would take to register on a Breathalyzer test, but said it was probably a large number of drinks.

Nick Adams, associate director of athletics, said the athletics department decided to change its policy on selling O'Doul's to minors after talking to Harrison and Anheuser-Busch officials.

A company representative from Anheuser-Busch said O'Doul's is not marketed to minors.

According to Harrison, being convicted of violating the zero tolerance law would result in the loss of driver's license for a year and at least $1,600 in fines and legal fees.

Zero tolerance does not apply to a minor who is not operating a vehicle.

University Housing Director Michael Schultz was not available to comment on whether or not O'Doul's will be allowed in residence halls.

"SIUE was not violating any laws serving O'Doul's to minors. We don't want to put people in a position where they can end up with problems," Harrison said.

O'Doul's first appeared on campus this semester, not only as a beverage, but in advertising in the Vadalabene Center, Korte Stadium and Roy E. Lee Field.

SIUE is receiving $30,000 over three years from Anheuser-Busch for the advertising.

No hot water for you

BY DANIELLE STERN
MANAGING EDITOR

Much of the campus will be without hot water through the weekend and possibly into next week.

Cougar Village and the residence halls will not be affected.

Annual maintenance and repairs on the high temperature water line have resulted in lower water temperatures.

University Housing will not be affected because Prairie and Woodland halls and the buildings in Cougar Village have separate water heaters, according to Bob Legate, associate director of housing.

Leland Hoffmeier, assistant director of facilities management, said no more heat is going through the main water system. He said Saturday would be the earliest that hot water would be available.

"We originally presumed just lower temperatures," he said.

Then on Tuesday, Hoffmeier was told to shut off the heating generator completely.

"It's regrettable, but it was forecast," Hoffmeier said.

Facilities management staff met with the campus building coordinators in September to address the situation.

The repairs have also resulted in a gradual lowering of the Vadalabene Center's pool temperature.

Mick Ostrander, director of campus recreation, said approximately 500 students use the VC daily.

Ostrander said SIUE has a reciprocal pool arrangement with the Edwardsville YMCA.

The VC pool will remain open, but students have the option of going to the YMCA to continue aquatic workouts. A valid SIUE student identification card or Student Fitness Center membership card must be presented. This arrangement will continue through Friday.

Ostrander said SIUE accommodated YMCA members when the Y had problems at its pool last week.

Contact the Edwardsville YMCA at 656-0436 for a schedule of available lap times.

Illinois C-SPAN in the works

BY ANTOINETTE BERNICH
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

Illinois might join the ranks of 18 other states by offering a statewide government television channel, to be known as the Illinois Channel.

The proposed public affairs channel would bring state government to the people in the same way the cable channel C-SPAN offers live coverage of the U.S. House and Senate and the White House.

Representatives of the public affairs department started the project at the University of Illinois at Springfield.

"For the past 20 years, C-SPAN has allowed citizens throughout the nation to follow the debates in the U.S. House and Senate. We believe the citizens of Illinois deserve the same," UIS Chancellor Naomi B. Lynn said. Lynn is also chair of the study.

Flu shots temporarily put on hold

BY MELISSA STEIN
CHIEF COPY EDITOR

Students expecting their flu shots will just have to wait.

The flu vaccine Health Service expected the first week of October has not yet arrived.

"We have no idea when we'll get our supply," Claretha Bryant, director of Health Service, said.

Bryant said the delay was caused by the flu vaccine manufacturers having trouble producing a particular flu strand.

"We'll do whatever we can to get the injection given in a suitable amount of time for the shot to work," Bryant said.

The vaccine, once administered, takes two weeks to build up antibodies against the flu.

Bryant said a large amount of the flu vaccine was ordered and she doesn't foresee a shortage.

She said clinics will also be set up at the Alton School of Dental Medicine and in the Morris University Center. Students pay $8 for the vaccine.

Students find culture

BY DANIEL GONZALES
NEWS STRINGER

Students will have a chance to travel to Egypt and learn about ancient cultures and may earn up to six credit hours at SIU.

"For people who love the long ago and far away, the strange and beautiful, the ancient and mysterious, this trip to Egypt will be excellent," English language and literature professor Lloyd Kropp said. He participated in a similar program earlier this year and said a trip like this could be a life-changing experience.

Following the program's theme of the "Human Divine: Stories of Immortality in Ancient Egypt," students will see ancient Egypt, including some of the temples and tombs in Cairo, Luxor and Aswan. They will also ride a camel into the Saharan dusk, visit with some of the Arabs of the nomadic tribes and take a three-day luxury cruise on the Nile River to Abu Simbel.

SIUE and SIUC will co-sponsor the travel-study program Jan. 4 through 14. Up to 35 students, who may apply for financial aid for the trip through the university, will be able to participate. They will be led by a team of professors from SIU campuses.

A presentation will be given at 7 p.m. Thursday in Room 3117 of Peck Hall to answer questions about the trip.

"The SIU trip is especially excellent since it involves visits to many important archaeological sites that are not normally part of professional tours of Egypt. The program also exposes students to the dynamic world of modern Egypt for an interesting experience with a foreign culture," assistant professor of historical studies Allison Thomason said.

FLU

Side effects are mild but may include a slight fever and soreness or redness in the area where the shot was administered. The side effects can be alleviated with Tylenol.

Bryant said the best time to get the vaccine is between September and December. Health Service usually starts administering the shot in October and has provided the vaccine up to March.

Students should call Health Service at 650-2854 prior to their appointments to find out if the vaccine will be available.

Health Service will continue to schedule appointments for the vaccine.

Bush benefits all

Taxes and Education.

Taxes first. Texas Gov. George W. Bush, the Republican nominee for president, wants to cut taxes. In his own words, "If you pay income taxes, you get a tax cut."

Here's how it works: A single mother works as a waitress. She's supporting two children on an annual income of $22,000. Under Bush's plan, this waitress will pay no income tax at all. Let's see Al Gore do that.

A 20-year-old friend of mine recently got married. He and his wife are living in an apartment, but their combined income is about $15,000 a year. Elect Bush president and they won't pay income taxes. Bush's tax plan helps people help themselves. Everyone will benefit.

We college students especially will feel the relief and America as a whole will benefit. Cutting taxes will raise the standard of living for Americans because they'll have more money. It's short and sweet. Bush wants to eliminate the death tax, promote charitable giving, and reduce the marriage penalty.

We all know that the only way to encourage economic growth is to cut taxes. I'm sorry, but you can't argue with the fact that 6 million low- and moderate-income families will be removed from the tax rolls entirely. That's one of every five families with children.

Gore likes to pretend that Bush's tax plan favors the rich. But Bush's plan says that the more money you make, the smaller the tax cut you'll receive. To reap the benefits of Gore's tax plan, you have to have a child in day care or college, be a beneficiary of an estate, have an ailing parent or be married. And there are stringent regulations on each of these categories.

Immediately, that rules out me and most of my friends. Why would any college student vote for Gore? In fact, 50 million taxpayers will not even be eligible for Gore's tax plan. So if Gore's elected, half of tax-paying America would not receive relief. Vote for Bush and all 94 million taxpayers will benefit.

Now on to education. Bush will spend $500 million to reward states and schools that improve student performance, $1 billion to strengthen math and science programs in kindergarten through grade 12, $2.4 billion to enact teacher accountability systems, $3 billion for technology in the classrooms, $5 billion for a program to ensure all third-graders will be able to read. Under the current Democratic administration, 70 percent of fourth-graders in our nation's poorest schools can't read.

Bush wants more accountability for our nation's teachers. He wants to give parents more flexibility in where they can send their kids and he wants to keep schools safe by enforcing juvenile gun laws. Bush will also guarantee that power isn't taken away from local school boards. You don't want the federal government telling local taxpayers and teachers what they can and can't do.

Gore loves to talk about Texas. So let's talk about the Lone Star State. As governor of Texas, Bush has increased funding for public schools by $8.3 billion and he's increased teachers salaries by 33 percent. How about that, education majors?

African-American fourth-graders in Texas ranked first in the nation in math. African-American and Hispanic eighth-graders in Texas ranked first and second in the nation in writing. Texas ranked first in the nation in teacher quality. The facts speak for themselves.

Both candidates are for education. Bush's plan is just better.

Vote Bush. For further information about these and other issues, see www.georgewbush.com.

S.J. Morrison
Columnist

Gore has the plan

Let's talk education and tax cuts.

Vice President Al Gore did his homework when he came up with a plan to improve education in the United States. Not only is the Democratic presidential nominee working to make sure children learn, but he will make sure teachers are competent to make children learn.

Gore wants accountability. I think I've heard that word enough in the last six months to last a lifetime. What really matters is who is being held accountable. Under both Gore's and Texas Gov. George W. Bush's plans, children will be tested. That's all well and good, but how are children going to learn if their teachers can't teach?

The answer: Gore supports testing teachers. This will ensure that children are learning. You can't expect to just drop a few billion dollars into education and expect things to get better. Gore is getting to the root of the problem.

In high school I had a pre-calculus class taught by a woman who claimed that she didn't even know why she was teaching the class. She knew nothing about the material. If she were tested, this would have never happened. You can't expect people to teach subjects they know nothing about. But that is exactly what is happening all over the United States.

Children won't learn if their teachers aren't competent. It is about time someone attacked the issue from a different perspective.

Gore also wants to shut down schools that are failing and re-open them with a different administration that can help children learn.

Bush wants to give schools that are doing well incentives. Oh yeah, incentives mean money. The problem is that the schools that are doing well don't necessarily need more money. It's the schools that aren't doing so well that need the help.

Gore also wants to hire 100,000 new teachers to reduce class size. With fewer students per classroom, children can get the attention they need. Bush said he will stop funding to schools that do not show improvement. What a great idea. The school is already failing, so why not just kick them when they're down. Taking funding from schools is absurd and will only hurt children.

Oh, Texas ranks 49th out of 50 states in education. I think that statistic speaks for itself.

Let's move on to tax cuts. Gore supports tax cuts for all Americans. So does Bush. The difference is in who will gain the most from these tax cuts. Under Gore's plan, middle class and poor families will receive the most tax relief. The wealthy will get a tax break, but there is no reason they should get as much of a tax break as the poorer people in the country.

Bush's plan will give most of the breaks to the top 1 percent of the wealthiest Americans. I don't get this at all. It seems like Bush wants the rich to get richer and the poor to get poorer. I don't think that's what the United States needs.

Gore also wants to give a tax break to college students and their parents. Under his plan, $10,000 of college tuition would be tax deductible. This way, people have a better chance of being able to afford higher education.

Bush has ideas for the country, but I don't think they are for everyone in the country. His education plans benefit the rich and his tax plans benefit the rich. It seems to me like something, or someone is missing here.

For more information on Gore's plans visit his Web site at www.algore2000.com.

Letters to the Editor

This letter is in response to the editorials concerning George W. Bush and Al Gore in the Oct. 19 edition of the Alestle. Although these articles were intended to help voters choose between Bush and Gore, my article includes reasons why I will be casting my vote for Ralph Nader.

Health care is a serious issue supposedly addressed by Bush and Gore. However, one has to question why the two parties haven't managed to deal with the problem of a vast number of uninsured Americans before now. They have been in control of our government for years, yet the number of uninsured Americans continues to rise. Ralph Nader illustrates how the need for campaign finance reform affects every aspect of our political decision-making, including our policies on health care.

"Every western country [besides the United States] provides universal health coverage for its people. But we are not doing it and to hear Mr. Gore, he pledges that he wants to do it, step by step, but it seems like it's step by step backward. In 1993, there were 35 million Americans without health care coverage and there are now about 46 million Americans doing without. The the health care system is riddled with inefficiencies, monopolistic practices and waste. Reducing the role of big money in politics will make it possible to tackle issues such as the pharmaceutical industry's domination of drug policy," Nader said.

There is also an underlying question when discussing prescription drug benefits for seniors. Why are these drugs so expensive in the first place? In an open letter to Al Gore, Nader addressed this issue by questioning Gore's present pharmaceutical-friendly policies.

"Will you end the practice of routinely allowing giant pharmaceutical companies to obtain exclusive rights to pharmaceutical drugs developed with the help of U.S. government funding, and then to sell these drugs at outrageous prices?"

The reasons these articles gave for supporting Gore or Bush are the very reasons I will be casting my vote for Ralph Nader. Campaign finance reform is a key to reclaiming our democracy and our economy from powerful corporate interests. Both Bush and Gore accept millions of dollars in campaign contributions from corporations. Ralph Nader refuses to fund his campaign with corporate donations.

For more information on Ralph Nader, visit www.votenader.org.

Journalists offer deal at Pizza World

BY DANIELLE STERN
MANAGING EDITOR

The members of the Society of Professional Journalists need SIUE's help.

To raise money for the local chapter, SPJ has joined forces with the Glen Carbon Pizza World for a fund-raiser from Thursday through Sunday.

Just mention SPJ when ordering and a portion of the proceeds will go to the organization. SPJ will use the money for programs and field trips. To order pizza and raise money for SPJ, call Pizza World at 656-6646.

This is the first fund-raiser of its kind for the SIUE chapter of SPJ. Melissa Stein, vice president and treasurer of SPJ, said the organization needs more campus involvement and more funds.

"We're trying to get the chapter active again," Stein said. "To do that, we need money."

SPJ is a national organization of professional and student journalists. The national chapter was founded in 1909.

Sheri McWhirter, secretary of SPJ, encourages students to give SPJ a chance.

"There has never been a time in history when the media has been as deceptive as it is today," McWhirter said. "If we can teach journalism students to be more fair and have better ethics, then one day the media won't be as distasteful as it is now."

Stein invites students to attend the next meeting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7, in Room 2042 of Dunham Hall. The group meets about twice a month.

For more information, call Stein at 650-0283 or SPJ's adviser, mass communications Assistant Professor Gary Hicks, at 650-2242.

TV

Project Director Terry Martin has been giving presentations throughout Illinois to get an idea of what kind of public affairs programming people would like to see on the channel. He recently visited SIUE to hear from people in the surrounding areas.

"The Illinois Channel could provide unedited, nonpartisan coverage of the General Assembly, the judiciary, the executive branch, regulatory bodies, news conferences, as well as major speeches delivered at colleges and universities," Martin said. Martin added that during campaign season, voters could watch debates and political rallies.

"The one commonality in all this coverage is that it is unedited, so the public can see a complete debate, speech, news conference or interview," Martin said.

For more information about the Illinois Channel or to take the survey about what will be put on the channel, visit www.illinoischannel.org.

THE FRESHMAN EXPERIENCE

Life goes on...

BY ANDREW LEHMAN
 NEWS EDITOR

It was the week from hell.

It did not start out as the week from hell. The week actually started off pretty well. I have been improving greatly on the guitar. I have been even working on writing a song.

That was probably the highlight of the week.

I was supposed to meet my friend Monday night after my art class so that we could go to a basketball rules-interpretation meeting. I referee basketball among other things. But the art teacher — if you can call her that since all she ever does is read right out of the book to us — kept us until the end of class. She usually never does that. So, I missed my ride.

That meant I had to go to the second meeting on Tuesday night. Because of that, I missed a chance to go see a movie with my friends.

Wednesday went off without a hitch. Well, I was extremely tired and slept through all of my classes. It was refreshing but I definitely did not get any work done.

Thursday seemed to be going pretty well. I got out of my English class early. I even made plans to see a different movie with my friends from English class. I got my paycheck. Those are always fun to receive.

However, when I returned home, I noticed the front door of my house was open. When I got inside, I noticed our television and videocassette recorder were gone. Funny Halloween prank. But, as I searched the house, I noticed my mom and dad's jewelry and watches were gone. Not to mention my parents' bedroom was a mess.

We had been robbed.

I went ahead and went to the movies with my friends anyway. There was nothing I could do at home. My mom and dad took care of what they could and I helped with what I could. What else was there to do?

I ended up meeting this really cool girl after the movie. She lives a couple of doors down from my friend from English class. I got her phone number. Silver lining around the cloud, I guess.

On Friday my tire blew up. That was kind of frightening, actually. I changed the tire in the parking lot of a Target store. That was embarrassing. And, I bought a new tire with what little money I had.

But, I did go to Fright Fest at Six Flags for half price. Not only that, but I went with three hot girls, although one of them was my best friend, another was a friend who had graduated with me and the third was a girl on my best friend's dorm floor. We hit it off quite well, thank you. I got her number, too.

On one hand, there was a robbery, a blown tire and a missed meeting. On the other hand, I got two phone numbers.

Not such a bad week after all.

SIUE to say goodbye to seniors on Friday

Lady Cougars will honor three seniors during Friday's game against Missouri-Rolla

BY KELI KEENER
SPORTS STRINGER

Coach Brian Korbmesmyer and his women's soccer team finished the Great Lakes Valley Conference season with an 8-0-3 record, good enough for a second-place regular-season finish.

SIUE, 12-3-3 overall, qualified for the GLVC tournament as the No. 2 seed just behind Northern Kentucky University.

The Lady Cougars will play host to an undetermined opponent in a quarterfinal conference tournament game on Nov. 1 at Bob Guelker Field.

The team will wrap up its regular season at 8 p.m. Friday at home with a matchup against the University of Missouri-Rolla.

"Rolla is pretty good," Korbmesmyer said. "They beat Northern Kentucky University (5-3) and the University of Missouri-St. Louis (2-1). At practice we talked about certain team and individual things we need to work on to get a win."

Rebecca Mays
Major: Kinesiology

The UMR Lady Miners, who are 7-7 overall and 2-2 in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association, most recently lost to Truman State University Sunday 1-0.

Denise McMillan leads the Lady Miners with 11 goals. Lizz Szkrybalo comes in second with her eight goals and seven assists.

"We haven't lost in the last 12 games," Korbmesmyer said, "but if we don't go into this game mentally ready, we're going to be dinner."

Friday's game will also be Senior Night. The Cougars have three seniors on the team this season: Beth Louderman, Rebecca Mays and Michelle Montgomery.

Louderman, a standout goalie, has started all 18 games for the Cougars this season and recorded 89 saves and five shutouts.

She is third in the conference with a 0.82 goals against average. She is tied with sophomore Emily Kipling of University of Northern Colorado, 19th in the region.

Mays continues to be a strong defender in the backfield for the Cougars by keeping tabs on the key scoring threat on opposing teams.

She was named second-team All-GLVC in 1998 and 1999.

Montgomery has recorded two goals and three assists this season.

She was voted to the first-team All-GLVC in 1998.

"Rebecca and Michelle have always been very instrumental for us," Korbmesmyer said. "They've played in nearly every game unless they were injured."

SIUE ranks 19th in Division II soccer with a .774 goals against average. In 15 games played, the Cougar defense has only allowed 12 goals.

"It's still going to be a stretch to get a (National Collegiate Athletic Association) bid," Korbmesmyer said. "Our three ties and three losses overall are still going to make it tough for us."

Cougar soccer will face Rolla during Senior Night

SIUE will take on the Miners in last regular-season match of season before starting conference tournament

BY BRANDEN PETERSON
SPORTS REPORTER

The SIUE men's soccer team will finish its regular season Friday.

The Cougars will face University of Missouri-Rolla at home this weekend.

This game will mark the end of the men's regular season and will also mark the beginning of the Great Lakes Valley Conference tournament.

Brandon Gibbs
Major: Physical Education

The Cougars are ranked third in the conference and their opponent unofficially will be the University of Southern Indiana. The match is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday.

The semifinals and finals of the tournament will be held at Lewis University on Saturday, Nov. 4, and Sunday, Nov. 5.

But before they can think about the GLVC tournament, they first have to play UMR this weekend.

Eric Modeer
Major: Business Administration/Marketing

It won't be easy because the Miners are a very solid team.

"I saw them play a week ago at the University of Missouri-St. Louis and it is an important regional game because both teams have a chance at the playoffs," head coach Ed Huneke said. "The loser of the game will probably lose that chance."

According to Huneke, getting his players focused for the game won't be a problem.

"They still want to get in the playoffs, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament would be a great accomplishment for us and this is one of four hurdles in the way of that," Huneke said.

The other three hurdles Huneke spoke of are wins in the conference tournament next week, which would make SIUE the conference tournament champions.

UMR is ranked 15th in NCAA Division II with a 0.87 goals against average. UMR is also ranked 16th in shutouts with four.

Todd Wilfling is the Miners' top goalie with 33 saves this year.

The Miners' leading scorers are Nathan Wojtkiewicz with 21 points and Greg Naslund with 12 points this season.

UMR is 8-4-1 so far this season with wins over GLVC opponents Southern Indiana, Indiana University Purdue University-Fort Wayne and UMSL this season.

The Cougars defeated UMSL 1-0 in action earlier this month.

UMR, like SIUE, spent its preseason in Europe. The Miners played nine games in Europe to prepare for the season.

UMR is coached by third-year coach Dawson Driscoll.

Driscoll last coached at Ithaca College in New York, where he was an assistant. During his time there, Ithaca accumulated a 28-8-2 record.

Friday is also Senior Night, where all seniors on the team are honored for their achievements.

The men have five players who will be leaving this year. Those players are Ryan Franklin, Eric Modeer, John Niebruegge, Brandon Gibbs and Donny Sheehan.

Franklin is a transfer student from Alabama A&M who brought depth to the Cougars defense.

Modeer is tied for third in the GLVC in assists with six this season.

With 52 games, Modeer has played more games than anyone else on the team.

"No doubt. This has been Eric's best year ever," Huneke said. "He actually started turning it on late last year and it's been an upward climb ever since."

Gibbs was named the GLVC player of the week for the week of Oct. 9 and leads the team in scoring with 18 points. He is also tied for third in assists with six.

"The most notable part of Brandon's play is that he's been a game winner," Huneke said. "He's got five-game winners for the year."

Niebruegge, a walk-on to the team last season, has been one of the backup goaltenders for the Cougars.

Sheehan has 60 career saves and six shutouts as the Cougars starting goalkeeper for the past two seasons.

"Donny is an experienced keeper and has done some good things for us," Huneke said.

He is also ranked fourth in the GLVC in saves with a 1.07 goals against average.

Sheehan will be celebrating something else Friday as well. Friday is Sheehan's 21st birthday.

Even though all of the seniors will be missed next season, Huneke has been around long enough to know that dwelling on the loss of a few players can hurt the team.

"You learn in college soccer to just expect the fact that you're going to lose seniors every year," Huneke said. "Some years are tougher than others, but you just learn that's part of the game."

The UMR game will begin at 6 p.m. Friday at Bob Guelker Field at Ralph Korte Stadium.

Departing seniors will face tough test in final weekend

SIUE will face the third-ranked team in the region Friday night at home

BY KUMAR BHOOSHAN
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Staying at .500 will be a difficult task this weekend for SIUE volleyball.

The Lady Cougars are coming off two impressive wins over conference opponents Bellarmine College and Kentucky Wesleyan.

Kathy Dulle
Major: Business Administration

On Friday SIUE, who is currently 10-13 overall and 6-6 in the conference, will play host to the No. 3 team in the region the Northern Kentucky University Lady Norse.

Northern Kentucky is currently 19-5 overall and 9-2 Great Lakes Valley Conference.

This will be the first time the Lady Norse and the Lady Cougars will meet this year. Northern Kentucky is ranked No. 1 in the conference in kills, assists and digs and is third only to Southern Indiana and Indiana University Purdue University-Ft. Wayne in overall team hitting percentage.

Lindsay Rust
Major: Management Information Systems

"Northern Kentucky is one of the quickest teams out there," coach Joe Fisher said. "We are working out a game plan to adjust to their quick offense."

Jessica Buroker leads the Lady Norse attack, ranking first in the conference in hitting percentage and is ranked in the top 15 in kills per game.

Northern Kentucky is also led by junior

Bethany Gastright who leads the GLVC in kills and is second overall in hitting percentage.

Gastright was also named player of the week in the GLVC earlier this year, and was named to the All-GLVC second team last year.

The Lady Norse are coming off a 2-3 weekend in which they lost to Lewis University, a team SIUE beat earlier this year.

"That loss to Lewis really shows that Northern Kentucky is definitely beatable," Fisher said.

The Lady Cougars will be the host for the University of Indianapolis at noon Saturday, a day in which the SIUE seniors will be honored.

Lindsay Rust, Kathy Dulle, Melissa Schaeffer and Heather Vaughan will play their final two home games for the Lady Cougars.

Rust leads the team in kills per game (3.75), kills (319), and digs (326).

Rust leads the GLVC in digs (3.84). She was also named to the All-GLVC first team last year.

Dulle is the team leader in assists (855) and ranks sixth in the GLVC, averaging almost 11 per game.

Vaughan is third on the team, averaging nearly three digs per game.

"What can I say about the seniors? They have all overcome adversities at one time at SIUE," Fisher said. "They have kept this team together and you hate to see them go."

SIUE hockey will try to get first win of season this weekend against Iowa

BY NEAL HAMM
SPORTS STRINGER

The SIUE Cougar ice hockey club will face-off against the Iowa State Ice Hawks Saturday.

Saturday will be the first time the Cougars will face the Ice Hawks so little is known about them, team captain Scott Cloin said.

"We haven't played this team before so we really don't know what to expect," Cloin said. "We go into every game expecting a good competition though. We're looking forward to a good game."

The Ice Hawks will bring a league record of 0-4 with them to the game against the Cougars.

The Cougars will come to Saturday's game with a disappointing 0-2 record behind them, with losses to both the Illinois State University Redbirds and the Bradley University Braves.

"Last Saturday's game was especially disappointing," defenseman Bryan Raymer said. "They were putting us down from the second they came into the rink."

The Cougars led the Braves 2-1 at the end of the first period. The first goal was a combination of the efforts of Lea Frea and Nate Hill.

Frea picked up the puck behind the goal and slid it to Hill, who worked his way in front of the net and backhanded the puck between the pads of Bradley goaltender Matt Strutzel.

Later in the period, Raymer picked up a pass from Cloin in the neutral zone.

He skated outside the Braves' defense and shoveled a pass to the far side of the net where Dan Kombrink one-timed the puck into the net. This was the Cougar's second and final goal of the game.

The Braves owned the second and third periods, scoring four more goals to make the final score 5-2.

The Braves also outshot the Cougars with 47 shots-on-goal, as opposed to the Cougars' 19.

SIUE goalie Todd Bartoszkiewicz kept the Braves' score down with an almost 90 percent save rate.

The Cougars have learned from their mistakes and are ready to face the Ice Hawks.

"Bradley clearly came out more physical than us in the third period," Cloin said. "We know that this week against Iowa, we're going to have to come out physical all game."

Defenseman Tom Hoagland said that against the Ice Hawks, the defense will have to do a better job of clearing the puck.

"We need to work on clearing the front of the net and also stopping rebounds," Hoagland said. "That's what is getting us killed."

The Cougars will face the Ice Hawks at 3 p.m. Saturday at the East Alton Ice Arena. Tickets are $3 for children and students and $5 for adults.

The Lady Greyhounds will be entering this conference match fourth in the GLVC Blue Division with a record of 24-6 overall and 6-5 in the GLVC.

This will also be the first time these two conference teams meet this year.

At 4 p.m. the Lady Cougars will play host to the Lady Hawks of Rockhurst College.

The Lady Hawks are coached by Tracy Rietzke who has a 500-65 overall record in his tenure as Rockhurst's head coach and has led his team to an impressive 32-2 record overall this year.

"This will be a great team to end our home season with," Fisher said. "They are traditionally a great team and will be a good test for us."

A ceremony to acknowledge the seniors will be held prior to the start of the first match, when the players and their parents will be honored for their contribution to Cougar athletics.
