Alumna needs help to pay medical expenses

KRISTEN REBER
NEWS REPORTER

Auction items and other donations are being sought to benefit alumna Kristie Mann Henke, who has an inoperable brain tumor.

The Office of Instructional Services is sponsoring a spaghetti dinner at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, May 8, at the Moose Lodge 1561, 7371 Marine Road, in Edwardsville.

"You can pay at the door, and there are tickets available for anyone who would like to purchase them. They are $10 apiece," said Carol Torrini, Kristie Henke Benefit Fund-raiser Committee chair and Office of Instructional Services employee. "(Retiree) Jean Kittrell, who has performed for many years, is going to perform, and Lori Frankie-Hopkins (of the Office of Instructional Services) will be performing. We are going to have a silent auction, and we also have a 50-50 drawing and a raffle."

In November 2003, Henke was diagnosed with the brain tumor, and the proceeds from this event will go toward Henke's medical expenses, which are no longer covered by her insurance.

"(The Office of Instructional Services) decided to do the benefit for her when we discovered she wasn't able to go back to work because she was going to have to do a biopsy and get treatment," Torrini said.

While working on her undergraduate and master's degrees, Henke worked for the Office of Instructional Services.

"She worked for us for six years, four years as an undergraduate student, and she worked for us for two years as a grad student," Torrini said. "(She worked for us) until August of 2003. That's when she graduated with her master's in speech pathology."

Henke began her career as a speech therapist with Virden Elementary School in August 2003, when she also celebrated her first wedding anniversary with her husband, Ryan. see BENEFIT, page 3

Student wins car at Blues game

SCHALENE HOUSTON
NEWS REPORTER

The St. Louis Blues might have lost the game April 1 against the Detroit Red Wings, but it was no losing night for SIUE freshman Jennifer Slinger, who won a new 2004 GMC Envoy.

Slinger went to last week's of everyone who won Blues tickets. They gave each of us a key and whosever key went in the car won," Slinger said.

Slinger said she was the last person to try a key.

When Slinger won, she said she was extremely excited.

"I was jumping up and down and stuff like that," she said.

"They gave each of us a key and whosever key went in the car won."

Slinger said she is supposed to receive a phone call as to when she can pick up the car. She will also be able to choose the game due to collecting Pepsi caps.

"I won Blues tickets with the caps," Slinger said.

After collecting the caps, she had to send them in, along with a postcard. Six people who won tickets were selected to receive the contest car key.

"They picked six people out color of the car she would like to have.

She already had a car before winning the Envoy but said she will most likely get rid of it.

"I had a Ford Contour, but I'll probably sell it," she said.

Slinger said some of the sponsors were Pepsi, GMC and WB11.

Vice president hopes to represent students

NATALIE WALTERS
NEWS STRINGER

SIUE students came out to vote for new Student Government officers, and junior Cindy Holesko was elected to serve as vice president for the upcoming school year.

Holesko has been involved in Student Government for the past year as a student senator.

"This feels good. I did a lot of campaigning. I get to further what I've already started," Holesko said of her upcoming role as vice president.

As a senator, she works with parking and traffic and said she hopes to continue that in the future. In addition, she said she hopes to have Health Services and the pharmacy open late Tuesday and Wednesday nights to accommodate the students who pay for those services but are unable to use them.

"I feel students aren't always adequately represented. I see issues that need fixing, so I joined Student Government," Holesko said of her role in serving the SIUE student body.

Student honored for hard work

NATALIE WALTERS
NEWS STRINGER

Hard work has paid off for senior Emily Kilman, the SIUE Student Employee of the Year. Kilman works as a clerical assistant in the Office of Undergraduate Assessment and Program Review and the SIUE Excellence in Learning and Teaching Initiative. Both jobs are part of the Office of the Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs.

"I'm really surprised and honored. I enjoy working there. This makes it all worthwhile," Kilman said.

Undergraduate Assessment

Director Douglas Eder, who nominated Kilman, said she has "communicated ample good cheer and enthusiasm, competence, creativity and perseverance."

Co-workers have similar feelings about Kilman's work in the office.

"Emily cheerfully breezes through any task requested of her and is thorough in every job she does," said Cathy Santanello, program director for the SIUE Excellence in Learning and Teaching Initiative.

Every year, the Office of Student Financial Aid requests nominations. This is part of National Student Employee

This year's runners-up include freshman Rachel LaRussa, senior Sonia Vaughan and junior Brooke Gengler.

National Student Employee Week

SCHALENE HOUSTON
NEWS STRINGER

SIUE employers will have the chance to recognize their student employees during National Student Employee Week, April 11 through 17, which is organized by the National Student Employment Association.

Student Financial Aid Assistant Director Sally Mullen said SIUE is a member of the organization.

As head of Student Employment, Mullen is in charge of National Student Employee Week.

"I'm in charge of Student Employment here, so I guess that would be me," Mullen said.

SIUE, in conjunction with PepsiCo Inc., will recognize student employees and thank them for their hard work.

Student employees will have a chance to receive a complimentary Aquafina squeeze bottle and a coupon for a free Pepsi product in the Morris University Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday.

Students have to present their student identification card to receive the gifts. If a student is unable to pick up their gift at the times above, they will be able to receive them from the Student Employment Office Tuesday through Friday.

Mullen said there will not be anymore giveaways or other events the university will put on for student employees.

"Everything else is at the departmental level. We encourage the departments to do things for the employees," Mullen said.

Employers are encouraged to celebrate the contributions of the students because they are essential in running the university.

Employee of the month

BRIAN TREDWAY
NEWS STRINGER

Mary Jo Peck, Office of the Provost administrative secretary, is the April Employee of the Month.

Mathematics and statistics professor Rahim Karimpour nominated Peck for the award when she worked as a secretary in that department two years ago.

Recently Peck has become the administrative secretary for Assistant Provost for Cultural and Social Diversity Rudy Wilson.

Rudy Wilson said Peck is a secretary who is "highly competent, efficient, loyal and trustworthy."

Peck will receive a plaque, a $25 gift certificate for the Morris University Center Bookstore, up-close parking for a month and two complimentary lunch coupons to the University Restaurant.

After receiving the award Peck said she felt "elated. It was a wonderful surprise."

Peck has been working at SIUE for 18 years, moving up the administrative ladder to have one of the highest secretary positions available.

Cougar Lake should be more of a priority on SIUE campus

You don't have to be Jesus Christ to walk on water; just take a jog on Cougar Lake.

It's like the Really Dead Sea. And, have you seen the Donal Myer Arboretum lately? It's such a mess even the plastic turtles are protesting.

I saw what appeared to be a

I'm not sure it's legal, but I've seen people fishing in Cougar Lake. How on earth did they do it? Did they treat it like they were ice fishing? Did they walk out into the middle of the moss, chisel a hole and throw down some steak?

As I've previously stated, we're not dealing with cute and primitive creatures.

My only theory is that the science departments are working to create a mutant form of fish. These things are probably so advanced in the evolutionary process that they have razorblades for teeth, breathe fire, have 5-inch skins and weigh deuce, deuce and a half.

Would you want to eat what you pulled out of that lake?

I've heard that when the humans and these monster fish coexisted, students used to swim in Cougar Lake. What happened?

Are the fish in a union? Did their contract come up for negotiation and the university officials have been dodging them for 30 years and just telling us not to swim there because they don't want any students to drown?

They don't have to tell me they don't want students to drown. I believe Cougar Lake is where the Environmental Protection Agency sends its lesser employees it wants to get rid of.

The EPA just sends them in and lets the behemoth, fire-breathing demons residing in that mudhole do the rest. But, have no fear, there is a solution.

As advanced as our problem is in these two sections of our community, we still have some options.

One solution is to drop 10 tons of ammonia nitrate in the lake. But that's not environmentally friendly.

I'll give the SIUE administration a few other alternatives in the form of a multiple-choice question. What do we do with Cougar Lake?

"... Cougar Lake and the arboretum should be parts of our university that we showcase. Instead, it appears as though they've been shelved."

Facilities Management worker at the arboretum a few days ago. I didn't get a great look since he had climbed up the remnants of a tree to get away from Buick-sized piranhas snapping at him.

The point is, Cougar Lake and the arboretum should be parts of our university that we showcase. Instead, it appears as though they've been shelved.

The bigger problem by far is Cougar Lake.

Letter to the Editor

Soldier reminds us freedom isn't free

Dear Editor,

First I would like to introduce myself. I am the guy who, last year at this time, organized the Support the Troops rally. I, along with several other people, stood on a grassy hill and waved flags for the troops who were deployed.

We did this while the "peace rally" was going on. We stood united for the men and women of the armed forces. I never once noticed the peace rally supporting, or even mentioning, the troops. They just wanted to stop the war.

Sometimes, however, war is inevitable. I say this because, as of late, I have been here in Iraq. My unit has been here since April 18. There has been a common misconception as of late. There are certain things that have been bothering me at home.

I recently wrote about the role of blame for Sept. 11, 2001. Well, now I am writing about something else that has really been bothering me.

You see, folks – and this is mainly to the college people out there who have never seen anything but the college campus – freedom isn't free.

The very freedoms you exercise are not placed there for you. They have been given to you by a certain few. Did I say certain few? I meant chosen few. I know what you are thinking.

"Well, people like Martin Luther King, Gandhi, Rosa Parks, the women who fought for the right to vote and all the demonstrators of the '60s gave me the right and the voice to say and do what I want."

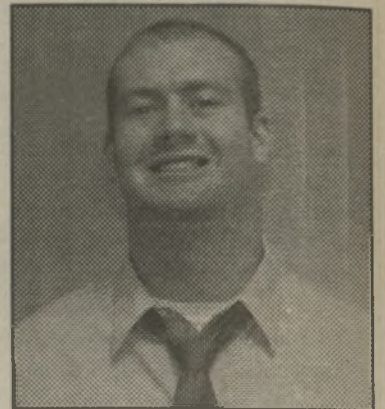

Well, you are right, in part. These individuals did raise their voices. I give credit to them. However, they are only people who stood up and raised voices. Who gave them the right to shout?

Indeed, just look at Tiananmen Square in 1989. Those students stood up and shouted, but what happened to them? They were quieted very quickly. So, I will ask the question again.

Who gave the right for these voices to speak?

Some of you reading this are saying, "They did it themselves. They gave themselves the right to do so."

A. Feed the deer, geese and plastic turtles to the cougars we're gonna bring in, feed the cougars to the piranhas and then sell the super-piranhas to the government for a price hefty enough to take care of the university budget problem.

B. Put a high-voltage fence around the area and pretend it doesn't exist.

C. Put a high-voltage fence around the area, call it SIUE Jurassic Park and sell tickets.

D. Just fill the whole stupid thing in with concrete and give those of us on my end of the 400 side a few more parking spaces.

Personally, I'm in favor of the last choice, but I'll let you decide for yourself.

It is true that exercising one's liberty is the only way to keep that liberty. However, you still have no clue who gives you those liberties. This is what angers and sickens me.

People today have no idea who gave them the right to vote, speak, demonstrate, be tried in a fair court and practice their own religion. When did the break in communication happen? Well, it's time someone stood up and set the record straight.

You see, folks, it is not the lawyer who gives you the right to a fair trial. It's not the pastor who gives you the right to practice your own religion.

It is not the campus demonstrator who gives you the right to petition. And, it is not the newspaper that gives you the right to say what you want.

None of these things mean anything without the soldier, sailor, marine and airman. These chosen few give you the right to do these things.

Our presence gives you the right to stand. We chosen few have given our lives for your rights. We don't ask for anything in return, except that you remember us twice a year. Heck, most don't even ask that.

So, the next time you hold a rally, or even attend one for that matter, take a moment to realize why you are able to hold one in the first place.

Concert series ends on a cheerful note

VICKI KRUSE
LIFESTYLES STRINGER

The full moon with its bright haze glowed as the audience exited the Morris University Center after the final Coffee Concert of the year.

The bright moon added to the magical experience of the final concert for the Coffee Concerts Chamber Music Series, sponsored by the Music Department, Monday evening.

Freshman Quinn Corrigan, a music education and jazz performance major, attended the concert.

"I thought it was delightful, very enjoyable," Corrigan said. "(But) I was disappointed in the turnout."

The Madison Room was filled with round tables covered with white tablecloths, each surrounded by 10 chairs, most of which were empty.

Music professor and pianist Linda Perry attributed the low attendance to the opening Cardinal baseball game. About 50 to 60 people attended the concert.

Perry was accompanied by music professors Lenora Anop on the violin, James Hinson on the clarinet and Kangho Lee on the cello. The music was playful, fun and pleasant to the ears.

"Trio in E Flat Major, Opus

38" by Ludwig von Beethoven, performed by Perry, Hinson and Lee, warmed the audience.

The next arrangement, the tango "Otono Porteno" by Astor Piazzola, had its roots in Argentina, Perry said.

The final piece, "Trio No. 1 in D Major, Opus 35" by Joaquin Turina, was performed by Perry, Anop and Lee.

The music was soothing to the ear, and the crowd listened intently to the rhythm and melody as it bounced back and forth with playfulness and seriousness.

Art studio senior Erica Ingram said she was at the concert for a music appreciation class.

"I think the pieces went together well," Ingram said.

Music education sophomore Stacie MacBush said, "I liked it all. I liked the clarinet a lot."

Italian cream cake and hot coffee were served at intermission while the crowd mingled.

A bravo goes to the performers for their dedication and awesome performance.

Congratulations are also in order for the music faculty for sharing their talents with the students and community.

Anyone interested in future concerts can contact the Music Department at 650-3900.

in the Goshen Lounge of the Morris University Center.

The outdoor concert series has become a tradition on the SIUE campus.

"We have been doing the Livewire event for quite some time, but I am not sure for how long," Preusser said.

Livewire provides students with the opportunity to hear local bands outside of a traditional venue such as a bar or a club.

For the bands, the concert series is a chance to introduce students to their particular style of music.

Preusser said the next Livewire event, following Stone Cat's performance, is Thursday, April 29, by the band Zang.

This performance will be the final performance of the semester.

Dunham Hall is known for bringing talented thespians and musicians to share their gifts with audience members.

It's also quickly gaining a reputation for producing talent from this very campus.

These two reputations will culminate in a jazz concert at 2 p.m. Friday in Dunham Hall, Room 1109.

The concert, which is free and open to the public, will feature a quartet of SIUE music professors Reggie Thomas on the piano and Rick Haydon on the jazz guitar.

In addition to the on-campus talent, the quartet will feature two more musicians.

Harold Jones will be on the drums and Jeff Campbell on the bass, both boasting impressive credentials and musical talent.

"Jones is formerly of the Count Basie Orchestra, and he plays with Natalie Cole now," Thomas said. "Campbell is a professor of jazz bass at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y."

Jones, who has a musical recording career that spans 44 years, has worked with an impressive array of musicians and has been featured on five Grammy-winning albums throughout his career. Campbell has a nearly 15-year career under his belt, with nearly as many albums featuring him on bass.

Thomas commented on the musical prowess of Jones, along with some of his musical credits.

"You're getting a jazz artist in Jones who has performed with many of the jazz greats," Thomas said. "Sarah Vaughn, Count Basie, great musicians like that. He worked with Christina Aguilera in recording her Christmas CD."

Guests will not only be treated to a free concert, but also somewhat of a reunion.

The foursome has played first rhythm section that we've ever played in," Haydon said.

The hourlong concert will also serve as an educational tool with a pre-show clinic at noon featuring Jones and Campbell.

"We're going to record both the clinic and the performance," Thomas said. "We're doing a live video of both, and we're going to develop an instructional video out of the footage."

As for the four getting together for the reunion and concert, Haydon offered his sentiments.

"I think it's a really fabulous opportunity for people to see a legendary musician in Harold Jones," Haydon said. "We've been wanting to have him here for a long time. He's a great ambassador for the music. It's also just great to have Jeff here because we all worked together in the camp up north. All four of us playing together is as good as it gets."

For more information on the event, contact Thomas at 650-5867 or Haydon at 650-3900.

For more information on Jones and his discography, visit www.haroldjonesbigband.com. For Campbell, go to www.rochester.edu/eastman/Jazz/jazz_campbell.html.

together before, three years ago during their residencies at the Birch Creek Music Center in Door County, Wis.

"It's a reunion of sorts," Thomas said. "We worked together in residency at Birch Creek, and that's how we all met and got the idea to do a performance."

Haydon also added another first into the mix.

"One of the things that we'd like to mention is that this is the Experimental takes on a new meaning when "Skriker" enters the Metcalf Student Experimental Theater.

"From the costumes to the language, everything is challenging," director Carrie Hill said.

"Skriker," written by Caryl Churchill, will be performed at 8 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday, April 14 through April 17, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 18. Tickets are $5.

"Skriker" is a play about old English folklore and fairy tale characters colliding with reality," stage manager Rebecca Sass said.

"Skriker" is a fairy tale itself and about two girls, Josie and Lily, getting their wishes granted. Soon, other folklores and fairy tales start to unfold.

"The moral of the story is be careful what you wish for," Hill said.

"There are seven cast members in the show," Sass said.

"There are three main characters and then four ensemble. One cast member is a graduate that came back to work with us. Her name is Whitney Elmore."

Hill said a few of the other cast members, Erin Dempsey, Kristin Mefford and Rachel Hanks, are members of the Student Experimental Theater Organization, which is producing the show.

Hill said everything about the play is extremely interesting to her. However, she said the main part that excited her the most was the language.

Hill said the language could be seen as rhyming-gibberish poetry. But to understand all of it, there was a lot of exploring to do. The whole play required research.

"The research started in October, and the rehearsals started in February," Hill said. "I had to learn all of the English folklores and fairy tales like the back of my hand. It was my job to learn it, understand it and then tell everyone else so they could understand it." Hill said every piece of the script was important.

"Even in tech, the last days of rehearsal, people are still saying 'Oh, that's what that means,'" Hill said.

Hill said she decided to direct this play because she did not find any reviews on it. This play has not been produced much. There were no explanations or directions to use.

"It was like an ongoing treasure hunt," Hill said.

Hill was an actress before her directing days and said she would like to direct for the stage professionally. She performed in the play "Devil Inside" last semester, and she also participated in last spring's "Wake Up."

For an extra bonus, Friday, April 16, is the 20th anniversary of the Metcalf Theater. The first cast and crew and the first director to produce a play in the theater are expected to be guests for that evening.

Quality pitching and timely hitting have Cougars back on winning trail

KEVIN CORRIGAN
SPORTS EDITOR

After recovering from a dismal start, the SIUE men's baseball team will look to stay hot during its most critical week.

The 10-20 Cougars will take on the University of Missouri-St. Louis and Northern Kentucky University this week.

The Cougars stand at 7-10 in Great Lakes Valley Conference action. Both the UMSL Rivermen and the Kentucky Norse are ahead of the Cougars in GLVC play.

The Cougars are in the midst of their best stretch so far this season. They have won two in a row and five out of eight.

"We kept our hopes alive with two wins over (the University of) Southern Indiana," head coach Gary Collins said. "We are still in the hunt for a conference tournament spot."

The Cougars defeated USI 5-2 and 3-2 Sunday.

Both games saw balanced pitching and timely hitting. Game one saw junior pitcher Ron Jones throw five quality innings while picking up the win.

"He had a great outing against Southern Indiana; he won me over," Collins said. "I think he's going to continue to get better, although it will be hard for him to pitch any better than he did Sunday."

On the year, Jones leads the Cougars with a perfect 3-0 record. His microscopic 1.04 ERA is also a team best. Jones allowed just one run on two hits.

Junior pitcher Pat Evers and sophomore pitcher Jameson Sheley were able to close out the 5-2 victory.

Offensively, the Cougars were led by senior centerfielder Luke Humphrey and sophomore outfielder Joe Wargo.

Humphrey had two hits with two RBIs while Wargo had two hits and one RBI.

The second game took a little longer than normal but proved to be very similar to the first game.

Thanks to seven scoreless relief innings from sophomore pitcher David Briesacher, the Cougars were able to outlast the Indiana Screaming Eagles 3-2 in 12 innings.

"Briesacher did a wonderful job," Collins said. "His velocity see BASEBALL, page 10

Men's soccer uses spring season to reload an already scary arsenal

KEVIN CORRIGAN
SPORTS EDITOR

In the beginning of their spring season, the SIUE men's soccer team is already looking like it's in mid-season form.

The Cougars stand 2-1 in the spring season, including a 6-0 drubbing of the University of Missouri-St. Louis Tuesday.

"We sure looked good yesterday (Tuesday)," head coach Ed Huneke said. "And that was playing short-handed."

Tim Collico, a junior transfer from the University of Missouri-Kansas City, provided more than enough firepower, scoring four goals for the Cougars. Sophomore midfielder Brian Higgins and freshman forward John Matthews also found the back of the net.

The Cougars dropped a 2-0 decision to Northern Illinois University but rebounded nicely to defeat Western Illinois University by the same score. Higgins and Collico both scored in the victory over WIU.

The Cougars are looking to build off a National Collegiate Athletic Association quarterfinal appearance last year. In fact, the Cougars are an impressive 46-11-6 in the last three years, including two NCAA appearances, two Great Lakes Valley Conference regular season titles and a GLVC Tournament title.

The recent success has led to a string of good recruits for SIUE. The most recent are Collico and freshman midfielder Mike Zaegal, who is transferring from Michigan State University.

"These are players with big game experience," Higgins said. "You just can't find these players anywhere."

The Cougars are also expecting big things from junior transfer Kevin Thibodeau. The DePaul University transfer should solidify an already athletic and deep backfield. Thibodeau said he is anxious to get back on the field after a two-year hiatus.

"I'm just glad to be getting back into the swing of things," Thibodeau said. "I just want to be the best soccer player I can be."

All-GLVC performers Tim Velten and Pete Cacciatore will also return. Velten was tabbed a first-team performer while Cacciatore earned second-team honors in the fall.

Other key members returning next year for the Cougars are junior defender John Lamping, freshman defender John Matthews, freshman midfielder Victor Pacheco and junior defenders Danny Mosier and Michael Burgund.

The Cougars did suffer a few losses, however, with All-Americans Addae Rique and Cal Thomas.

Rique signed a professional contract with the St. Louis Steamers of the Major Indoor Soccer League, ending his collegiate career. The Trinidad and Tobago native led the Cougars with 14 goals and 38 points last year.

Thomas ended his Cougar career with graduation. His 13 goals and 32 points were both career highs.

Also gone will be senior goalkeeper Bret Richardson. The Mount Vernon, Ind. native posted a career-best .79 goals against average. His 16 wins was also a career high.

The Cougars will have at least three goalkeepers battling for the top spot next year. Junior Jared Petersmith, freshman Greg Crook and incoming recruit Nick Frasca.

"Those are going to be tough numbers to replace," Higgins said. "We have done a great job stepping up in the past."

While there will be some new faces around next year, Higgins said he knows the goals won't change.

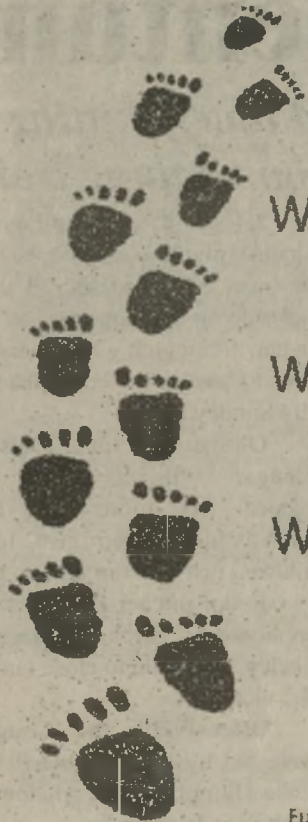

"We're aiming for a national championship and nothing less," Higgins said.

The Cougars will continue spring action through the end of April and will start the 2004 fall season on Aug. 27.

Senior second baseman Brad Scott provided the ending, as he lined a bases-loaded single to cross home the winning run for the Cougars.

Junior outfielder Jared Brueggeman and Humphrey have been hot recently for the Cougars.

Brueggeman is batting a team high .326 while Humphrey leads the Cougars with 25 RBIs. Both registered hits in this weeks action

The Cougars will be on the road for both games this week. The Cougars next return home Wednesday when they host Kentucky Wesleyan University.

Men's tennis struggles down the final stretch

KEVIN CORRIGAN
SPORTS EDITOR

The SIUE men's tennis team enters its last week of the regular season on a sour note.

The Cougars are coming off three losses in Great Lakes Valley Conference action. The Cougars dropped matches to the University of Missouri-St. Louis, Northern Kentucky University and the University of Indianapolis.

In the three matches, the Cougars were beaten by a combined match score of 24-3. Freshman Justin Free picked up two of the victories, while sophomore Matt Kuban picked up the other.

Even though the Cougars dropped three matches last week, they are still a lock to advance to the GLVC Tournament, which begins Friday, Apr. 16, in Indianapolis.

SIUE, 6-9 overall and 2-4 in the GLVC, stands in sixth place in the GLVC. The Cougars will try to halt a four-game losing skid before it starts the conference tournament.

"We had a tough week against some tough teams," head coach Bill Logan said. "We are just going to focus on closing out the season on a positive note to get ready for the conference tournament."

Free leads the Cougars with a 12-7 record, playing primarily at No. 3 singles. Junior Chris Rigdon has 10 wins on the season after playing mainly at the No. 5 singles spot.

In January 2002, despite his own State Department's report which found no violations of the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) program, Bush withheld $34 million in family planning aid pledged by Congress, Secretary of State Colin Powell, and even the President himself.

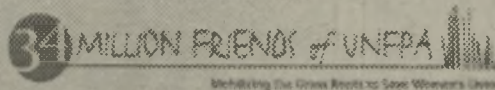

Jane Roberts (pictured above), the co-founder of 34 Million Friends, will be speaking at Sustainable Development Awareness Night 2004.

Outraged at this decision, Jane Roberts and Lois Abraham urged their friends to donate $1 to the UNFPA in place of America's shortcomings. This effort has taken hold & is a tremendous grassroots effort known today as 34 Million Friends.
