Campus Activities Board welcomes incoming and returning students with events all week

SCHALENE HOUSTON
NEWS STRINGER

Live from SIUE, it's Welcome Week 2005 and Campus Activities Board has several activities planned to keep students busy.

According to Kimmel Leadership Center Assistant Director Cheryl Heard, this year's theme stems from the long-running sketch comedy show, "Saturday Night Live."

"The (Traditions) committee thought since students watch SNL, the concept of SNL is fun and upbeat and that students could relate to it," Heard said.

The events kicked off Friday with activities such as a barbecue and an evening social for the newly moved in residents.

Monday kicked off with traditional events, such as the activities fair. While in past years, the fair has taken place on the Stratton Quadrangle, this year, the booths have been set up in the Morris University Center's Goshen Lounge.

Students check out the variety of posters offered at the Global Prints sale at the north entrance of the Morris University Center Monday. The sale continues from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday.

"The weather was a major consideration since, historically, it has been the hottest days of the year and the rental cost of the tents, tables and chairs is expensive," Heard said.

Along with the traditional activities fair, many annual activities will take place throughout the week.

The Global Prints sale, which provides students an outlet for dorm room décor, will take place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. throughout the week at the MUC's north entrance.

In addition, the Merchants' Fair will offer giveaways and samples from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, in the Goshen Lounge.

Campus Activities Board Traditions Co-chairperson Kimberly Triefenbach said she had fun organizing the events for Welcome Week and hopes students have fun during the week.

"It feels great to have the honor to put together a traditional event," Triefenbach said. "It is great to be able to plan events that a variety of students will enjoy and attend."

Heard suggests students should attend the activities during the week because the events offer opportunities for networking and making new friends.

"It is an excellent way to kick off the new academic year," Heard said. "(And) to enjoy fun events and activities, and to check out what student organizations, university departments and area businesses have to offer."

Welcome Week 2005 will conclude with the Edwardsville Block Party on Friday in downtown Edwardsville.

For more information on Welcome Week's events, call the Kimmel Leadership Center at 650-2686.

SIUE loses more than $40,000 in projectors after summer thefts

STEVE BRITT
NEWS REPORTER

Since April, thieves have made off with more than $40,000 in projectors from smart classrooms across campus.

Most recently, three projectors worth about $11,000 were stolen from the School of Education and Geography Department on Aug. 8.

Ed Franklin of Audio Visual Services said thieves hit rooms that were not locked.

"SIUE has an open classroom policy," Franklin said. "We leave doors unlocked."

Franklin said he took extra precautions after the rash of thefts between April 26 and May 5.

"Physical locks were put on and I put security devices on the ones I have control of," Franklin said.

His department is not responsible for the ones recently stolen.

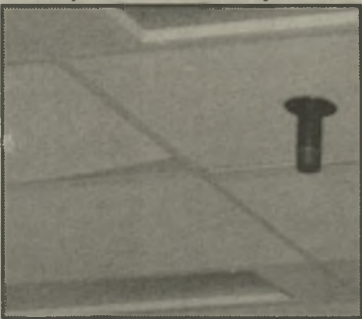

"At least this time, they'll have to bring tools," Franklin said. "You can't stop the professional, you can only stop the opportunist."

According to Geography Chair Randall Pearson, those involved in the most recent thefts were more than just opportunists.

"This was a professional," Pearson said. "They reached up, moved the tile and undid all of the little wires."

The Geography Department lost a ceiling-mounted data projector valued at more than $5,700. Included in that price is a security mount, which according to department secretary Janice

The opened ceiling tile and dismantled connector are all that remains of a missing projector. Three projectors were stolen from the Schools of Education and Geography on August 8.

Miller, "Obviously didn't work."

"Our open door policy is out," Pearson said. "We never really considered something wired up and 10 feet off the ground would be taken."

Anne Moore in the School of Education said she ordered new locking cables for each of the 20 classrooms. Two projectors were reported stolen the same time as those in the Geography Department.

"One was pretty much brand new. It's costing $3,000 a piece to replace them," Moore said.

According to Moore, doors were once again partially to blame.

"From what I've been told, they were stolen over graduation weekend and the doors were wide open," Moore said.

Pearson says replacing the projectors will come out of the respective departmental funds.

SIUE Police Lt. Kevin Schmoll said he believes these projectors are being targeted.

"I think they're looking for that particular item. ... They've been taking these apart pretty

Student trustee position now open for elections

CORY FREEMAN
NEWS STRINGER

A position for student trustee has opened for the 2005-06 year after the original elected official decided to resign before taking office.

Dell Jones was elected for the position of student trustee in April, but then resigned on June 20 after a meeting with Student Affairs Vice Chancellor Narbeth Emmanuel.

"After meeting with you on June 8, 2005," Jones wrote to Emmanuel in a letter, "I've concluded that it would be in the best interests of the Board of Trustees, SIUE and myself to resign my position as Student Trustee effective immediately."

Jones did not give a specific reason for resigning.

Former Student Trustee Rick Maurer completed his term June 30 and was to be succeeded by Jones on July 1.

"It's an important position because the board wants to make sure that they're getting adequate student representation," Student Body President Cindy Holesko said. "It's the only position we have an election for ... if I were to appoint the trustee then that person might be biased in my favor."

The position remained vacant because Student Government did not want to have an election during the summer term, according to Student Government Secretary Bonnie Farrington.

Requirements to apply for student trustee include a minimum 2.5 grade point average at the time of application and a minimum 2.3 GPA throughout the term, two completed academic terms as a full time SIUE student and have Illinois residency.

Applications are available in the Student Government office in the Morris University Center and must be returned by 4 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 7.

As of Monday, one application was taken out but not submitted.

A mandatory candidates meeting will be held 4 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 7 in the

Sigma Phi Epsilon house up for sale

STEVE BRITT
NEWS STRINGER

The only off-campus fraternity house is now just a memory, or is on the block.

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity moved out of the house at 1210 N. Main St., Edwardsville in July.

"It was more house than any chapter on this campus could handle," Greek Life Coordinator John Davenport said. "It's a shame when you consider the house they had before was the right fit for them."

The City of Edwardsville bought the house previously rented by the fraternity for its historical value more than five years ago.

The most recent house, once Lincoln School, now sits empty with a large Landmark Realty sign posted in the front yard. The once prominent Greek letters are gone from the building's façade.

"They (city officials) made them take it (their letters) down within the week," Davenport said.

Davenport believes most cities are leery of Greek housing within the city limits. "They're simply protecting property values," he said.

Calls to Matt Townsend, president of Sigma Phi Epsilon, were unreturned.

Edwardsville City Administrator Ben Dickmann said the city did not have any serious problems with the Sig Eps.

"There were some calls that had police intervention," Dickmann said. "We had initially some problems with building codes. ... It took a while but they eventually got an occupancy permit."

"All in all, they were ... like all students, trying to get an education, have a good time and move on with their lives," Dickman said.

According to a spokesman for Landmark Realty, the house is listed at $775,000 with 20,000 square feet.

The spokesman also indicated the fraternity "poured a lot of money into fixing things."

SIUE receives small facelift in renovations

CORY FREEMAN
NEWS STRINGER

Over the summer, approximately $8 million was spent on construction and maintenance throughout SIUE. So, where did that money go?

The School of Pharmacy building, located at 200 University Park Drive, was renovated for classrooms and offices. Also, a new lab building was also built for offices and a pharmaceutical classroom, but the completion was slightly delayed.

"The actual construction took seven months," Facilities Management Director Washburn said. "It was delayed because of rain last fall. It should've started last October, but it didn't begin until January."

Redoing the ramps in Alumni and Founders Halls was one of the most unexpected projects.

"That was one of those things where we made lemonade out of a lemon," Campus Architect Rick Klein said.

Originally, the project was supposed to take three days to repair the joints on the ramps, which made the ramps cave in. It was decided that it was better to rip the ramps out and rebuild them. As a result, the project took four weeks.

Across campus, workers also have been busy applying a new coat of paint to SIUE's water tank, located between the H&R Plant and the Early Childhood Center, since July 29. The inside of the tank has to have a protective coating applied every few years.

According to Washburn, the residence halls felt the low-water pressure from the maintenance on the water tank, especially on the top floors.

"We're keeping a close eye on the toilet flush valve," Washburn said. "It needs water pressure to close and if the pressure is too low, they won't close causing even less water pressure."

Pizza Hut, Taco Bell and Freshens are open again after being closed the entire summer session.

"We replaced the tile floor in the lobby outside of Freshens and put in a drain line for Taco Bell," Klein said. "We also added a work area for Pizza Hut since that area was shut down, anyway."

Also undergoing renovations, the Roy E. Lee Baseball Field experienced the replacement of all stadium seating and ramps, concrete patio and walkways, a new concession area and restrooms and new lighting for the field.

Other projects included replacing tiles on the third floor of Rendleman Hall, a new walkway in front of Rendleman Hall and circuit breaker checks in all of the core buildings.

Kimmel Leadership Center Conference Room in the MUC when the applications and statements for the campaign are due. The official start of the campaign is Thursday, Sept. 8. The election will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 20 at the north entrance to the MUC. A student identification card is required to vote.. The official results will be posted Friday, Sept. 23 and the new student trustee will take office Monday, Sept. 26. Duties for student trustee include serving as the SIUE student representative to the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees, attending the regularly scheduled meetings of the board of trustees, carrying out all official and ceremonial functions of his or her office and attending all regularly scheduled meetings of the Student Senate. “There’s a lot of pressure and dedication,” Holesko said. “The student body president and the student trustee are the two most important student officials.” For more information, call Student Government at 650-3819.

What Do A Life Preserver And A Flu Shot Have In Common?

If You Have Diabetes,
Ask Your Doctor.

If you live with diabetes, you're more likely to die with the flu. Just ask the families of the 30,000 people with diabetes who died of flu or pneumonia complications in a recent year. Then ask your doctor for a life-saving flu shot for you and those closest to you, and about the other risks you face when you face diabetes. Because with diabetes, prevention is control, and control is your life line.

Newspaper works to serve its readers

I'd like to welcome all of our students and faculty, new and old, to another year at SIUE. My name is Courtney Rakers and I am the editor in chief of the Alestle, SIUE's student newspaper.

As editor, I promise that the Alestle will strive to keep you informed on the latest news and issues at SIUE in a timely, accurate and balanced manner. We publish every Tuesday and Thursday in the fall and spring semesters to keep our readers up to date on what is going on in the campus world.

However, we can always use your help. If you like to write, take pictures or think you are an English whiz, please come up to the office and help us out. We have an open-door policy at the Alestle to give everyone a chance to experience the world of journalism. Even if your experience is limited, we are more than willing to work with you to improve your skills. College is, after all, a learning experience and we view the Alestle as a learning lab for students to get real-world experience.

But if you are not interested in working for the paper, I encourage you to work with us. If you have an opinion, rant or rave, please tell me about it. Send a letter to the editor at alestleeditor@gmail.com. We do reserve the right to edit for grammar and content, but your message will remain intact. Feel free to contact us with information on your student organization's events and activities as well. If we think it's relevant, we will report it.

You can also leave us news tips on our news line at 650-3438. Call and let us know about anything you see or hear about that you think is important. Unless you leave your contact information, your tip will remain anonymous.

Make the most of your time at SIUE by getting involved and knowing what is going on around you. This is your school and your paper. At the Alestle, we will try our best to be your guide when choosing from the multitudes of opportunities available to students every day.

Again, welcome to SIUE. I wish everyone the best of everything in the coming year. Keep in touch!

Also, be sure to check out our Back to School Survival Guide on the newsstands Thursday. All 52 pages have information that will help you make the most of SIUE.

Housing disappoints alum

My daughter was set to begin her college career at SIUE in August. She had been admitted, registered for classes, bought all the usual stuff for dorm life, including expensive extended-length linens from a company that received our address from the university housing office. We received a letter informing us that there is no room for my daughter and that we have only 10 days before we must decide whether to find off-campus housing (more expensive of course), give up our current housing application, or send our daughter to, perhaps, live in a student lounge, (an option that is still mysterious because there is no explanation what this means.)

The school cashed our housing deposit check. I would suggest that the school should not cash deposit checks until the students are actually placed in on-campus housing. The using of this money while the school is aware that there is no space amounts to nothing more than a scam. Give us $300 to use for a few months and we'll give it back if you send us a request for the deposit before a deadline that is only 10 days away.

The housing office should also let the prospective residents know that there is an excellent chance that requests received for housing after a certain date will be denied. I find it to be almost impossible to believe that the housing office could be so ignorant of the number of available units compared to the number of prospective students.

It is now probably too late to take advantage of offers and options from other schools that had accepted my daughter as a student. Her scholarships and housing prospects have, no doubt, been offered to others.

Commuting is not a viable option and the housing office has made no effort to find off-campus housing contacts at this late date. I truly hope that the administration of this particular office can be improved for future on-campus residence applicants.

Don't use the deposit until the student is placed. Don't encourage the students to purchase expensive, extended-length linens until the student is placed, and finally, if the student will not be placed, let them know early enough to allow the student to make other arrangements.

It is a very real possibility that my daughter will have to take at least one semester off before starting her college career, and that SIUE has lost a new student because of the decisions made in the housing office.

Very Disappointed,
Bill Wamser

Students invited to come 'rock the block' at party

Students looking for a place to show off their new school clothes can come "rock the block" at the fifth annual Edwardsville Welcome Back Block Party.

Members of the SIUE community are invited to the event, named "Rock the Block." The festivities kick off at 6 p.m. Friday at the intersection of Second and St. Louis streets in downtown Edwardsville.

A DJ will be filling the streets with music between 7 and 8 p.m. and beginning at 8 p.m., St. Louis' own Smash Band will be performing until 11:30 p.m.

"New students can come and see the downtown area of Edwardsville, and the shopping that it offers," SIUE's Public Affairs Director Greg Conroy said.

Main Street shops will have booths serving food and displaying their goods.

Students looking to shop for more new school clothes may also want to check out the booths of local retailers.

Inflatable games and activity booths will be set up for kids and the Glen Carbon Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a beer tent for those of age.

Last year, students that attended the block party had a great time participating in the jousting arena.

"It [jousting] was a lot harder than I thought, but it was so much fun," senior Nicole Kates said.

Campus Activities Board has arranged for transportation to and from the party. Two shuttles will run approximately every fifteen minutes at SIUE bus stops.

Transportation and admission for all events is free.

SIUE gets running and gunning

Men's soccer team is ready to put best foot forward in fall season

MATTHEW BRUCE
SPORTS EDITOR

The air at Ralph Korte Stadium seemed to carry a thin layer of urgency and apprehension Sunday night as the night-lights brewed under the setting sun. A slight scent of unbridled intensity began to emanate just below the surface, with Bob Guelker Field becoming the site of a battle for pride.

The SIUE men's soccer team played their final preseason game over the weekend, knocking off the Eastern Illinois University Panthers 4-1 in what was all but a meaningless affair.

"It was a good test for us," SIUE Assistant Coach Duane Kloepple said as he explained that EIU is a NCAA Division I school that the Cougars regularly face in the preseason.

It was just the Cougars' second warm-up contest of the fall campaign, as they get set to enter the 2005 season with high expectations.

The Cougars, one year removed from advancing all the way to the NCAA Division II National Championship game, earned a No. 1 ranking in the NCAA Division II National Soccer Coaches Association of America preseason poll.

SIUE Men's Soccer Head coach Ed Huneke said he was pleased with his team's performance, and liked the progression he saw.

"I was impressed we played this well this early in the season," he said. "We're typically not this far along so soon. We've had a great preseason."

The Cougars had an Aug. 13 game rained out, but were back on the field Aug. 17 for a scrimmage against Lindenwood University.

Huneke said the Cougars learned that that they had to maintain their style of play even when facing opponents with contrary styles.

"We were a little sloppy in the first half," he said.

MATTHEW BRUCE/ALESTLE

Sophomore Adam Lanter drives the ball against Eastern Illinois University Sunday.

SIUE, however, made adjustments in the locker room and came out in the second half to put Lindenwood away, shutting the Lions out 4-0.

In Sunday's contest, the Cougars came out flying high, jumping out to a good lead by mid-first half.

SIUE senior Tim Collico scored the first goal of the game off of an assist from fellow senior Brian Higgins and junior Mike Banner. Junior Kevin Thibodeau dropped in a second goal to put the Cougars up 2-0.

An EIU goal from Jeff Stewardson with seconds remaining in the first half, said after the game. "I think we're going to be fun to watch."

Despite the win, Huneke still had some concerns after the game.

"We still have to work on what we call our restarts," he said. "That's corner kicks, any however, put the Panthers back in striking distance and gave them momentum entering the second half.

"We got on them real hard about how we're not going to tolerate any stupid goals," Huneke said.

Both teams came out more aggressive in the second half, and the game's intensity increased.

The Cougars eventually pulled away to take a commanding 4-1 lead after a goal by Banner off an assist from Collico.

"I was impressed with the nature of our goals (Sunday) and how we scored them," Huneke time you have to restart the action. We're still in need of some fine-tuning.

"If we can improve upon those things, it should be a good season," he added.

Huneke said he did not expect the national No. 1 ranking, but accepts it nonetheless.

"It's a good gift. I would take that gift," he said. "With us being No. 1 in the nation we can't underestimate anybody. Our theme is to respect all opponents, but expect to win every game."

The Cougars begin the season at 4 p.m. Thursday in Memphis, Tenn., against the Christian Brothers University.

Former standout gets call to big leagues

JOE VANZO
SPORTS STRINGER

SIUE graduate Aaron Rakers lived a baseball player's dream.

The Baltimore Orioles called Rakers up to the major leagues recently, making him the third Cougar in school history to play professional baseball.

It's no secret why Rakers got the promotion. He proved to be overpowering with Baltimore's AAA affiliate, the Ottawa Lynx.

In 50 appearances at Ottawa, Rakers compiled a 6-4 record and a 2.43 ERA. He also fanned 83 hitters and nailed down seven saves.

"He was one of the best players I ever had," SIUE Baseball Head Coach Gary Collins said. "He had a big heart. That was his biggest strength."

Unfortunately, though, Rakers' stay wasn't long. The Trenton, Ill., native logged just 1 1/3 innings, yielding two hits and one earned run before the Orioles sent him back down to the minors only three days after his foray into the big leagues.

Although he was sent down, it seems very likely that Aaron will get the call again when MLB rosters can be expanded from 25 to 40 players on Sept. 1. The Orioles put him to work down the stretch last year, calling him up during the last month of the regular season.

Rakers gave up two runs on five hits in four and one-third innings, notching three strikeouts in his first bid with the pros.

Rakers could be a shot in behind the wild card leader.

Baltimore's rough stretch since the all-star break could be attributed to a lot of things. Lee Mazzilli, the team's former manager, was fired on Aug. 4.

Former sure-fire Hall of Famer Rafael Palmeiro tested positive for the use of steroids in late July.

But the team's biggest problem has been its starting pitching, which hit a wall a few weeks ago. Rakers should be able to give the staff, where only one of their current five starters has ever thrown 200 innings in a season, a lift.

Rakers' recent success in the minors comes as no surprise.

His numbers in two seasons at SIUE look strikingly similar to those he has put up at Ottawa.

Rakers posted a 16-7 record and struck out 195 hitters in 181 and 2/3 innings at SIUE.

In 1999, Rakers' final season at SIUE, he proved to be a staff horse for Collins. He led the club in innings pitched, strikeouts, shutouts and held opponents to a measly .170 batting average.

"When he was on the mound he was in complete control," Collins said.

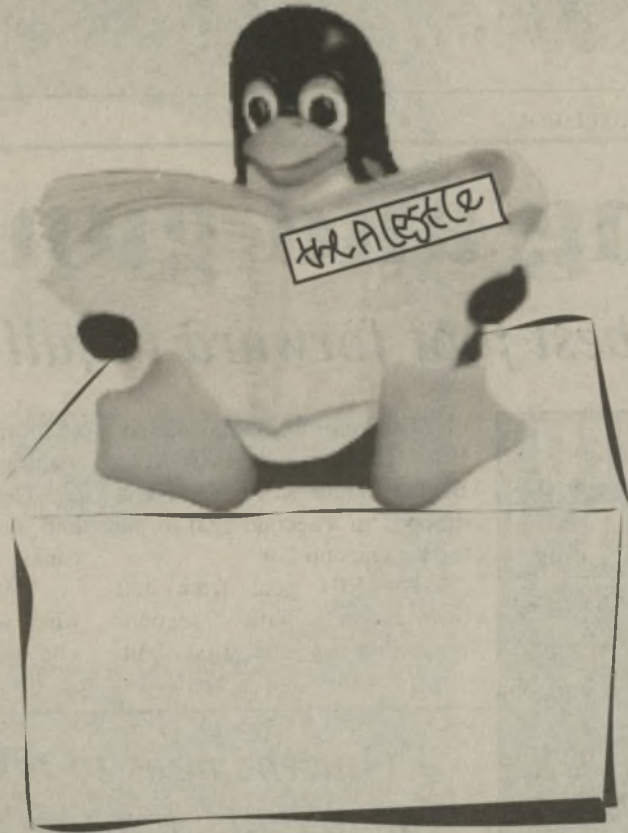

Over his career with the Cougars, Rakers climbed to 5th on the all-time SIUE strikeout list with 192 K's.

"He was one of the best players I ever had."
